

A PRECISE CHRONOLOGY OF ANCIENT TIMES

which extends from the most ancient recorded history to the first century A.D., consistent with the formulation settled by The Calendar Act, 1750.

A legally precise 'ladder of time' depiction of the foundational chronological data of the ancient nations of Israel, Assyria, Babylonia, Persia, Greece, latter Egypt and Rome: synchronised to the modern calendar in a composite graphic construction and comprehensively indexed.

All chronological evidence and argument of historical and astronomical records reckoned as having equal merit, subject to common law standards and principles.

No distinction given to any nations' religious beliefs, including those attached to the Bible, with the exception that the quantity of evidences of order, design and structure in both the macro and micro domains of science compel the recognition of a creator Deity, the theory that all originated from nothingness being legally unsupportable.

Principal features

- A modern computer constructed full-colour charting with precise dating of critical regnal events.
 - Substantial use of the Biblical record as presents the most extensive source of historical data and objective reasoning compared to the ancient records of other nations.
- All major scholars' chronological disputes and theories resolved beyond reasonable doubt consistent with the legal meaning of words, and standards of legal evidence and argument.
- An extensively hyperlinked empirical reference for students of ancient history, with printable notes and segments.